Introduction

The appearance of this catalogue, giving details of all the publications in the English language imported from the Soviet Union, coincides with the 21st Birthday of Collet's. It was in January 1934, that this firm took over its first shop at 66 Charing Cross Road, London, W.C.1, a shop already known for its sales of progressive literature.

At that time, few Soviet publications were available in this country, but it was not long before Collet's opened other shops and developed an Import Department which filled the gap and made Soviet publications well known to readers. It is significant that, at the same time, Collet's succeeded in exporting even larger quantities of British books to many parts of the world.

The present catalogue illustrates the wide range of these imported books in English, including material on art, culture, education, science, politics and sociology, to mention only a few of the subjects covered. We believe that the publications announced for 1955 are of even more general interest and that they will be welcomed by readers wishing to know more of the Soviet Union, its cultural heritage, and the social changes of recent years.

COLLET'S BOOKSHOPS

Leo Tolstoy

The works of Leo Tolstoy have long been recognised as foremost among Russian classics. He is acknowledged as one of the greatest writers the world has ever known.

We are pleased to announce that in 1955 Soviet editions of two of this great author's titles will be available in English. One of these is the first part of his famous autobiographical trilogy, and the other is a fairy-tale known to children of all lands.

CHILDHOOD

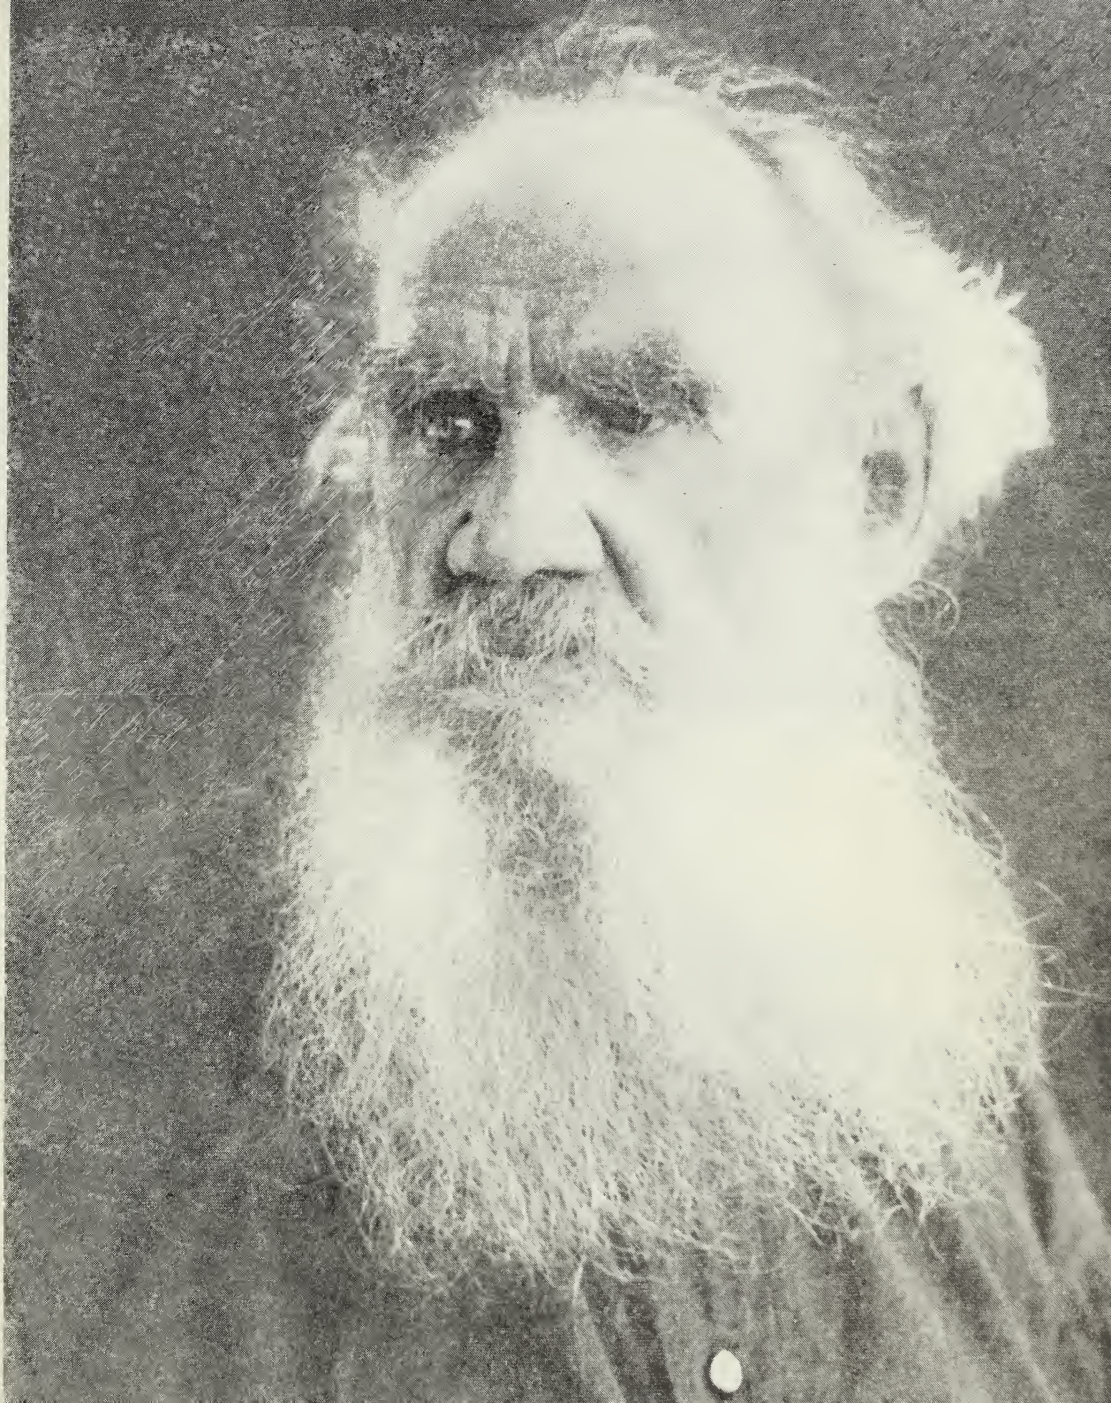
" Childhood " was Tolstoy's first work, written in 1852 when he was 24 years old. The story tells of Nikolenka's life in the country, his grief at the death of his mother and the beginning of the family's life in town.

85 pp. 2s. 6d.

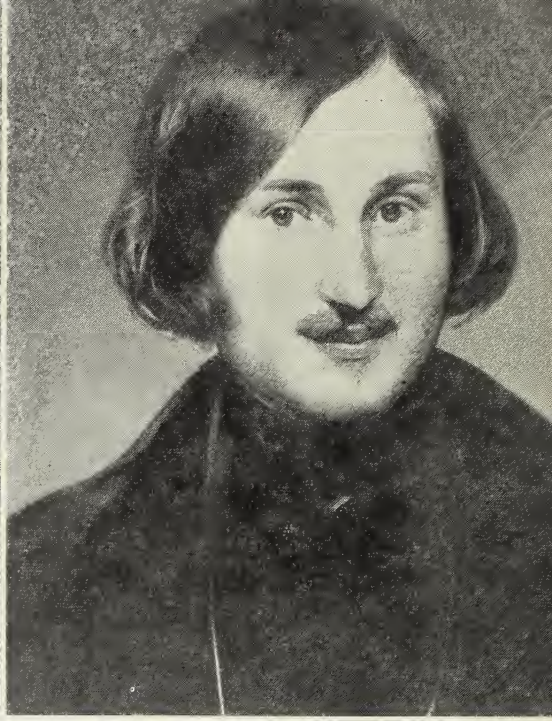
THE THREE BEARS

This illustrated booklet for junior school age children is the story of a little girl who gets lost in the woods and chances upon a house where live three bears: Father Bear, Mother Bear and Baby Bear.

11 pp. 9d



PUSHKIN



GOGOL

Russian

DUBROVSKY

by A. PUSHKIN

This illustrated novel, written in 1832-33, was the first work in Russian literature to pose the subject of peasant rebellion.

By his description of Dubrovsky's tragic fate, the young man's love for Mashenka and the way in which her despotic father trampled upon their love, Pushkin reveals the rottenness of the doomed feudal system.

95 pp. 2*s.* 6*d.*

TARAS BULBA

by N. GOGOL

In this book the great Russian writer tells of the struggle of the Zaporozhye Cossacks against the yoke of the Polish gentry in the beginning of the seventeenth century.

Gogol's heroes—old Bulba and his son Ostap, freedom-loving, rollicking and staunch Cossacks, and the traitor Andrei who meets with a horrible death—reflect an epoch of Ukrainian history.

158 pp. 3*s.* 6*d.*

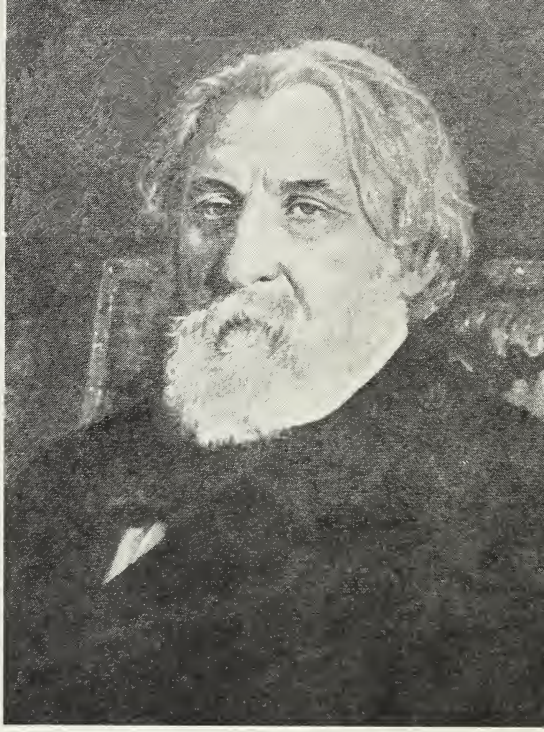
To be published in 1955.

CHEKHOV



TURGENEV

Classics

SHORT NOVELS AND STORIES

by A. P. CHEKHOV

This collection affords quite a wide view of Chekhov's prose, beginning with the best of his early stories, "The Chameleon" and "Death of a Clerk" (1883-84), and ending with one of his last works, "The Bride" (1903). Also included in this edition are some of the most important of the author's tales written in the nineties: "Ward No. 6", "Lady with a Dog" and others.

300 pp. 7*s.* 6*d.*

THE STORIES

by I. S. TURGENEV

Written by a master of fiction, "Asya", "First Love" and "Spring Freshets" are poetical stories about love.
Describing the powerful force of youth's fearless ideas, Turgenev lays bare the worthlessness and flabbiness of his generation of Russian nobility.

350 pp. 7*s.* 6*d.*

RUDIN

A novel. Translated by O. Gorchakov and illustrated by V. Sveshnikov.

138 pp. 5*s.* 0*d.*

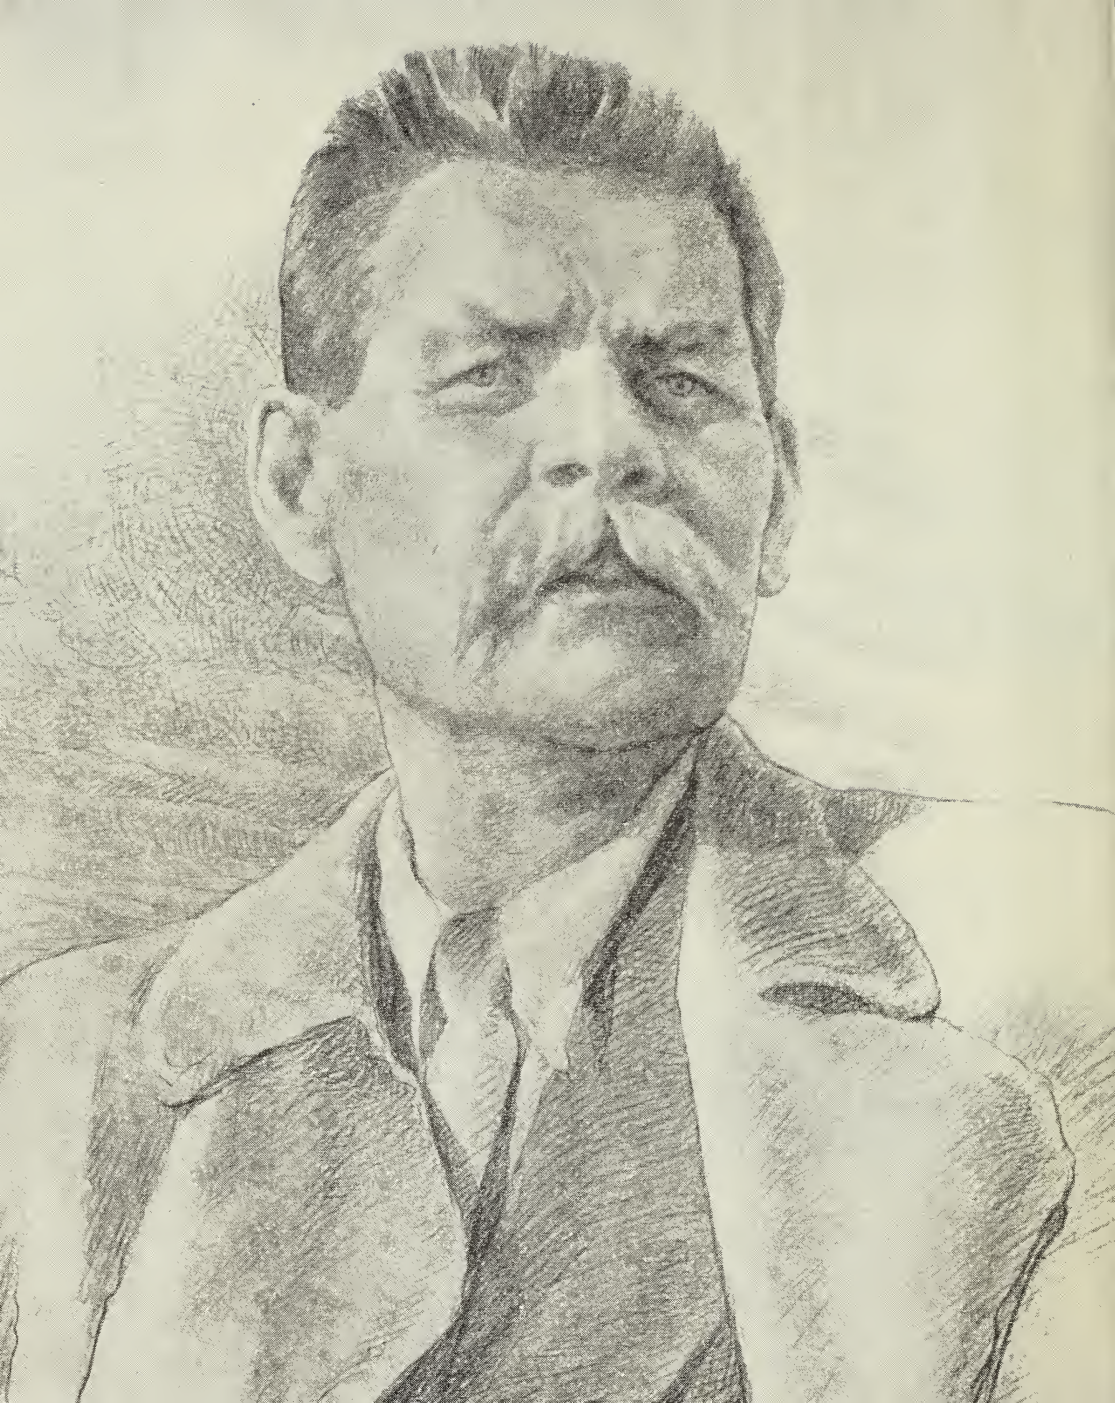
To be published in 1955.



Maxim Gorky

Gorky's famous autobiographical trilogy, bound in a uniform edition.

MY APPRENTICESHIP

683 pp. 6s. 0d.

MY UNIVERSITIES

301 pp. 3s. 6d.

CHILDHOOD

443 pp. 4s. 6d.

MOTHER

717 pp. 7s. 6d.

One of the greatest novels ever written.

THE ARTAMANOVS

614 pp. 5s. 6d.

A novel which traces the fortunes of a family of industrialists through several generations, up to the Revolution.

ARTICLES AND PAMPHLETS

408 pp. 6s. 0d.

Containing " In America ", " My Interviews " and " Public Writings ".

*FOMA GORDEYEV

262 pp. 6s. 0d.

Written in 1899, this book is a study of the life of Russian merchants late in the last century.

*SELECTED SHORT STORIES

248 pp. 6s. 0d.

This collection, written by Gorky in 1892-1901, includes " Makar Chudra ", " Old Izergil ", " Chelkash ", " About a Little Boy and a Little Girl Who Did Not Freeze to Death ", " The Mischief Maker ", " The Orlovs ", " Song of the Stormy Petrel ", " Song of a Falcon ", " Konavalov ", " Vanka Mazin " and others.

SELECTED WORKS, VOLUME 2

832 pp. 12s. 6d.

Containing " Childhood ", " Mother " and " The Artamanovs ".

* To be published in 1955.

Education

In his own country Anton Makarenko has been recognised as an outstanding educationalist from the earliest years of his work in that field. Now, his ideas are beginning to make an impact on people far outside the Soviet Union and his books are becoming more and more widely read in Great Britain.

The first part of Makarenko's famous book The Road to Life was completed in 1928, after he had spent eight years as head of the Maxim Gorky Colony, as it was later called. By that time he had in his care nearly 400 boys and girls.

During the last years of his life, Makarenko devoted great attention to problems of education at school and in the family. He planned to write A Book for Parents in four volumes, each dealing with different aspects of upbringing, yet linked together by a unifying idea. In co-operation with his wife Galina, he completed only the first volume, which appeared in 1937. He died on April 1st, 1939, at the age of 51.

THE ROAD TO LIFE

This is an account of Makarenko's pioneer work with delinquent children. Written of the early years after the Revolution, it is not only of interest to the educationalist but is also a literary work of outstanding merit.

Three Volumes. 12s. 6d.

A BOOK FOR PARENTS

Written in the form of personal experiences, this book carries forward the ideas put forward by Makarenko in his earlier work The Road to Life.

409 pp. 6s. 0d.
